John H. Aughey, of Dallas, Marshall county, who is the Presbyterian pastor at that point. The reverend gentleman gave us some interesting reminiscences of his experience as a Southern Unionist during the war. At the outbreak of the rebellion he was at the head of a flourishing semi-nary in the State of Massasiupi. He felt it to be his duty to espouse the Union case, and accordingly did so, going so far as to preach a semion on behalf of loyalty

The river gorged yesterday morning at several points between the city and Moundsville, backing the water up to 11 feet 3 inches at noon. The river was crammed from bank to bank with ice, making it pretty risky on boats and barges along shore. The ice had about stopped running at this point, when all at once the gorge let go and in the course of an hour the water fell between two and three feet. At dark the channel was comparatively thinned out.
